

SHINING LIKE A DIAMOND

There probably isn't a soul among us who hasn't heard singer-songwriter Neil Diamond's melodies—they're the classics in America's songlist: "Sweet Caroline," "I'm a Believer," "Song Sung Blue," all of our cherished favorites. Tribute artist Jay White (RIVIERA, 702.794.9433) pays homage to this legend in his Las Vegas show, capturing Diamond's attitude and looks, from sequined shirts to trademark moves. White truly looks like Diamond [Diamond himself has commented on the uncanny resemblance in voice and mannerisms] and delivers an amazing reproduction of his songs. The rock concert atmosphere is re-created here on a smaller scale, with a hot live band, smoke, lights and all, and the quicker-tempo songs really accentuate White's voice. Although White occasionally changes up the set list, you'll always hear Diamond's best from the last 40 years, including "Cracklin' Rosie," "Forever in Blue Jeans" and the perennial crowd-pleaser, "America."
